THAKUR SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE & PLANNING

Creating Smart, Environment-Conscious Professionals

With climate change looming around the corner, sustainable and eco-friendly designs are the need of the hour to save the world. Understanding the importance of intelligent professionals that can create sustainable structures, Mumbai-based Thakur School of Architecture & Planning (TSAP) is nurturing virtues of 'Environment Consciousness' by sensitizing the students, towards the fine nuances of the profession. We believe an environment conscious approach to design is a smarter way, it provides solutions, that go beyond the agenda of green design, while delving into the nuances of a complete solution. The approach that respects the uniqueness of each

Design Literacy

Everything in the world around us is carefully designed and developed to fulfil our needs! This is why it's necessary to be design literate. Design literacy is about exposing everyone to design so that they can be creative problem solvers to make their life better or what they do.

Conduct exposure sessions for is/peersons on understanding how design can impact lives and enable them to make informed choices. Spread the word on design literacy and the various career possibilities in the field of design school teachers and a larger young audience!

1. Traditional Wisdom

Old buildings and craft form- small, huge, known, or unknown are often a reminder of the past and always have stories to tell about people and communities. The traditional wisdom of building practices and crafts are a well-troved response to the context, climate and India's cultural diversity.

Study the local practices around you, identify an indigenous art or craft form, incorporate it into your design and document this treasure trove of traditional wisdom.
